Agenda – Evolving to Elevate Change Success

7

Making the Practitioner the Hero of the Journey

Improving the way we prepare, equip and support the heroes in our story was our focus.

8

“If it ain’t broke, don’t fix it.”

Bert Lance

American businessman and director of Office of Management and Budget under President Carter in 1977

Practitioner Problems Surfaced Through Empathetic Listening

1 Practitioners
are overwhelmed

I need simplicity, speed and to maximize value for effort.
I need a quick start and quick wins.

2 Doesn't work
in the real world

I need to adapt my approach for the conditions of the initiative and organization.

3 Only works in planned changes

I need to sequence my CM activities and timeline to match the solution design process and approach.

4 Changes and success
are not fully defined

I need to show
measurable progress
and performance.

5 Practitioners don't know 'when' and 'how'

I need to master the
'when' and 'how' in addition to the 'why' and 'what' to deliver effective CM.

6 Plug in other methods

I need to understand how to align other human dynamic approaches with CM to increase effectiveness.

7 Get past the head
nod to commitment

I need people to be willing and committed to execute change activities with a compelling case for CM.

8 Process and plans,
not enough people

I need to be ready for the changing landscape of change, organizations and workplaces.

“The heart of what we do is research. When we embarked on Methodology Refresh – how could we start anywhere but with research? The Methodology Study focused not on the discipline in general, but on how people use the Prosci Methodology. The findings informed decisions throughout the entire journey.”
